

Many people in the past became famous through writing 'Classical' music.

They made new sounds and wrote down their music for other people to play.

Why not investigate these musical inventors (Beethoven, Vivaldi, Shubert and others) listen to their music and write a fact file about them—some of them had very interesting lives!

Our class reader is The Iron Man, the story of a HUGE Robot that appears on earth. Can you make your own Robot statue to display in class? (not too big). Can you give him moving parts too?

Are you're an illustrator ?

You will have seen that there many different editions of the book the Iron Man.

Can you redesign the front cover of the class reader?

Include the title , the author and the illustrator (you).

This term's science topic is 'Sound'.

Can you design a musical instrument from a paper design to the finished article? Maybe something traditional or something completely new - never 'heard ' before.

Oh I do like to live beside the sea-side!

Complete at least 4 pieces of home-work and hand in by Friday 14th October.

As we will be finding out—Southend Pier was called HMS Leigh during WWII. Can you make a model of it? Why not draw a picture of it when the sun rises? Or how about designing a new feature to go at the end of the Pier—it could be a museum or a fun ride—you decide—maybe draw it or write a guide all about it.

What is your favourite music to listen to? Can you write a critical review of your favourite album, track or musical film? What do you like, dislike about it?

As we are learning about Southend can you draw a simple map of Southend highlighting the things that are important to you? What do you like and where have you been in our town.

'Sound works through 'Waves' of sound from an object'—can you think of an experiment to test if this statement is true?
