

We have been drawing pictures of London after re-searching the autistic artist Stephen Wiltshire. Draw a scene near your house or of somewhere in Southend.

We have been thinking about listening in RE. Ask someone in your family to tell you a story. Then get them to ask you questions about what they asked you. How much did you remember? Maybe different members of your family can take part. Who got the most questions correct?

Make a cake that includes wet and dry ingredients. Write down the recipe. How many grams of different ingredients did you need? How many millilitres of liquid did you use?

Can you find out about the Olympic games in Greece? Make a poster to invite people to the games. Include when it will happen (remember it was in the past). Include which sports will be part of the games. A poster should have big bold writing and some big clear pictures.

Find out some facts about something that interests you.

We are looking at plants in science. Can you make a collage of a plant using different materials. Then make some labels for your plant to show the different parts (stem, roots, leaves, flower). You can see if your friends in class can label your plant. Can you find out any different parts of a plants and add labels?
