

Hungry Cupboard

There was an old cupboard that had been thrown out because he had finished what he needed to do and was no use to anyone anymore.

A homeless person with nowhere to go, no money, very tired, sad and very hungry sits down next to the old cupboard. The cupboard looks at the homeless person and says, "Are you ok?"

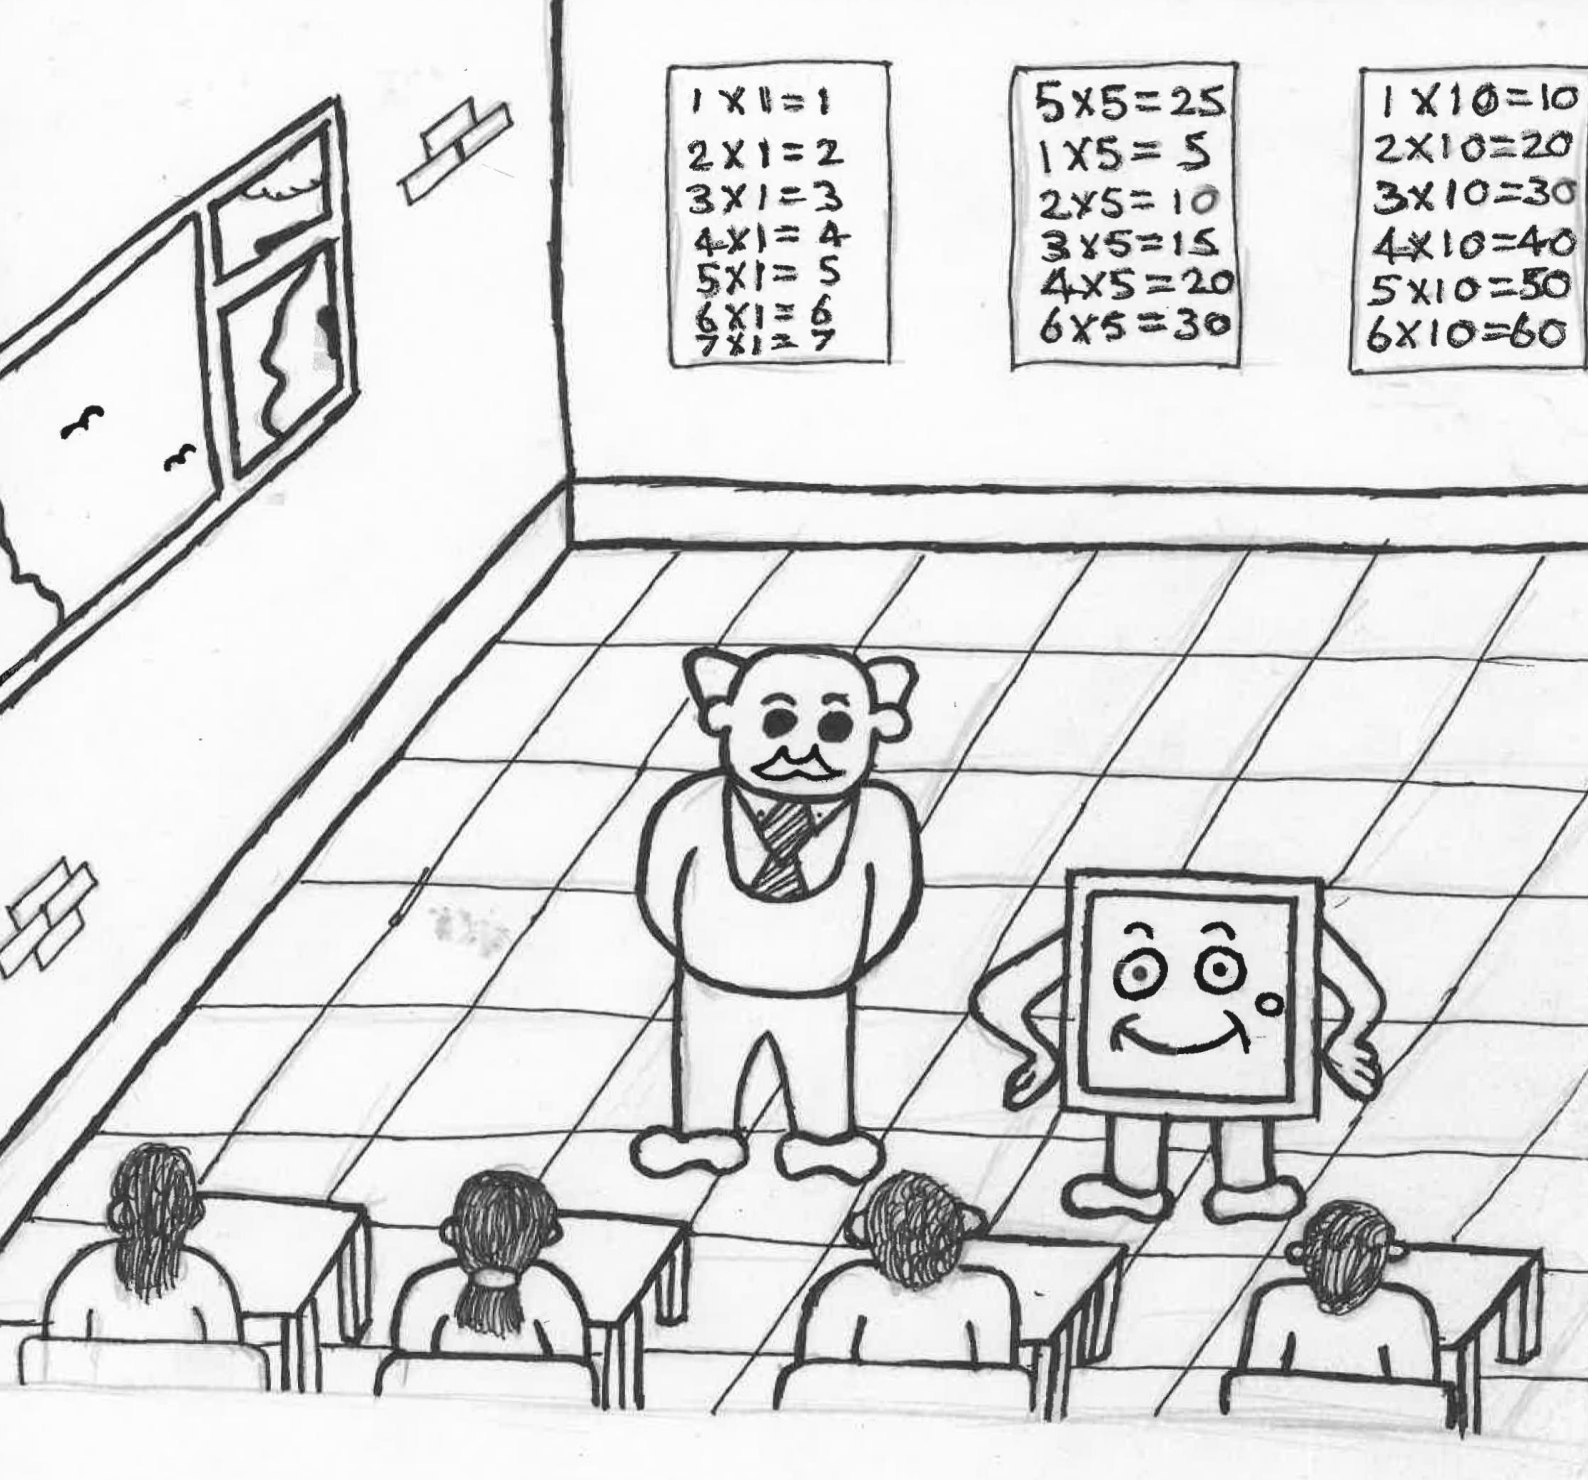

"No, I'm very sad and extremely hungry," replied the homeless person. He tells the cupboard about how he lost his job; couldn't pay his bills and eventually lost his home.

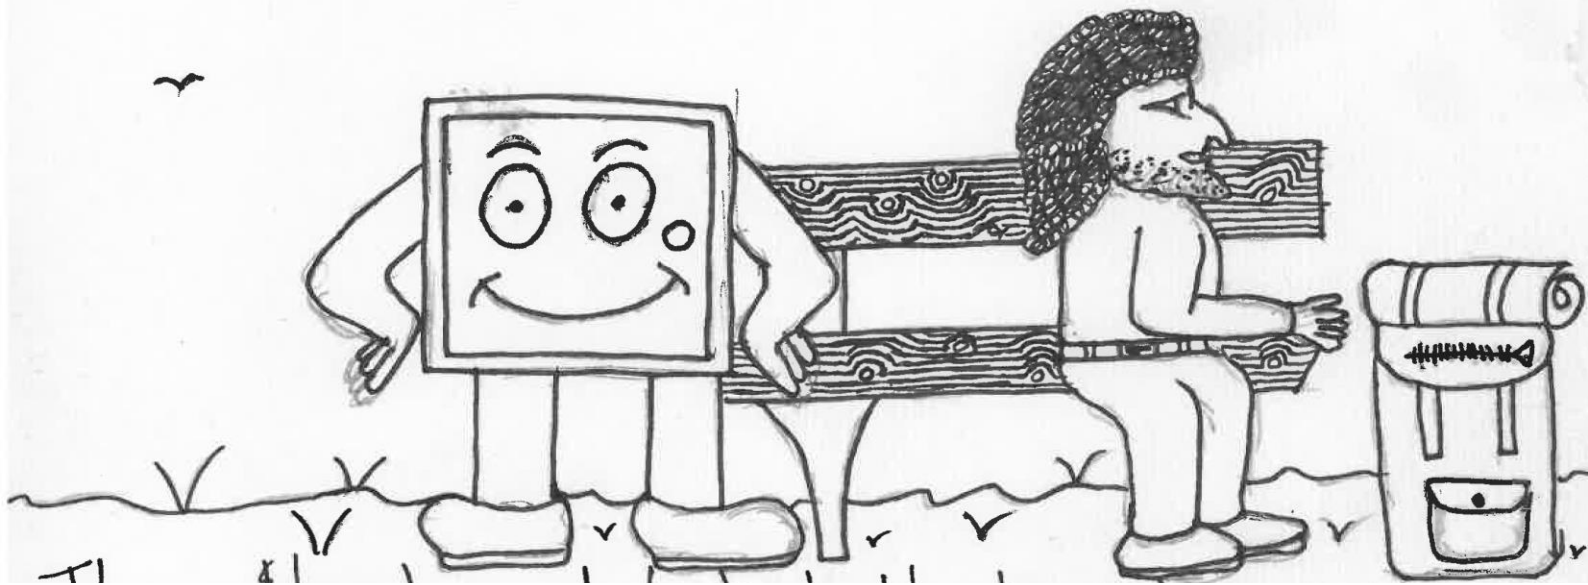

The cupboard wondered how he could help. He looked around and saw a school. There is a lot of people in there, I wonder if they can help, he thought. With this thought the cupboard leapt into action. He went to the school and found the man in charge.

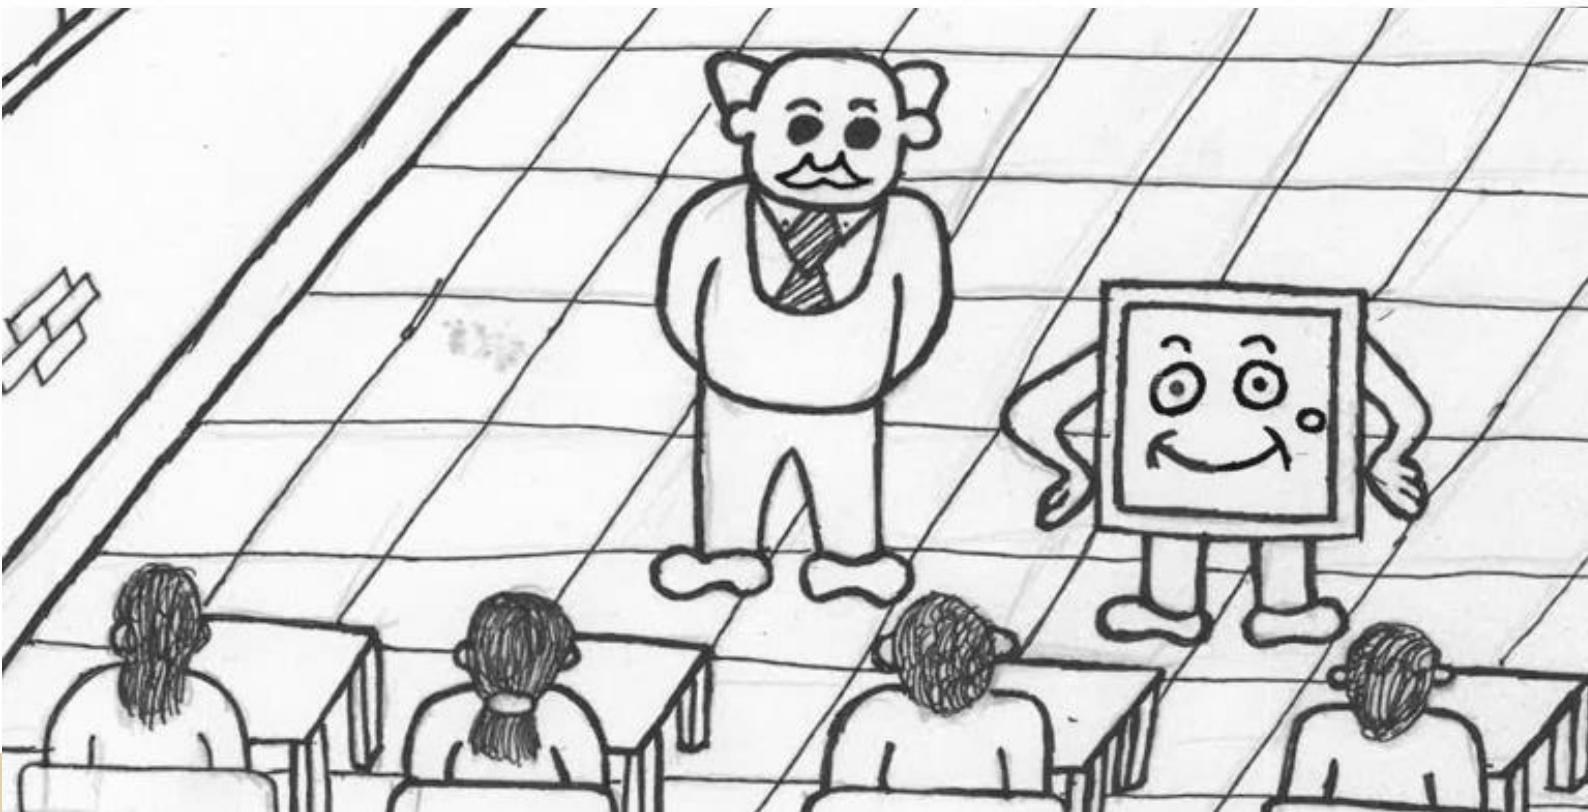

He told them about the man with no home and asked if anyone could help.

The man in charge and the cupboard went from class to class asking if everyone would bring in food and other things that would be useful.

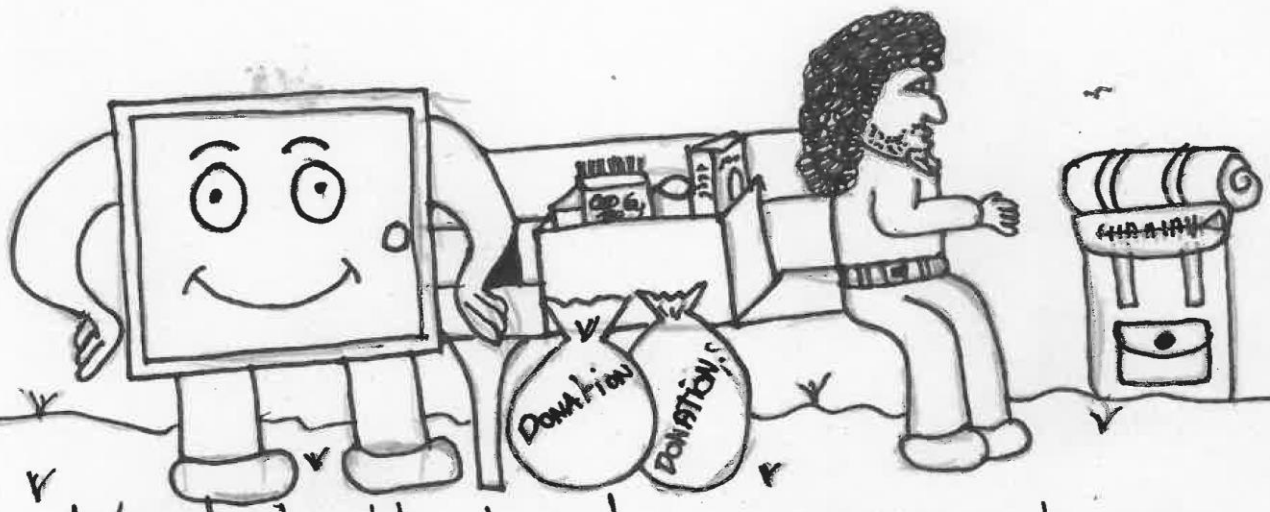

The cupboard went back to the homeless man and told him what he had been doing at the school and that he had to go back the next day and collect all the donations from the children and staff. The next day came and the cupboard told the homeless man to wait while he went off to the school.

When he arrived at the school, the cupboard couldn't believe his eyes when he saw all the things the school had gathered. Everyone had got involved. He collected all the items up and said a massive thank you to everyone and then said goodbye.

The cupboard went back to the homeless person and soon realised that he had too many items for just one person. The homeless person was grateful and said thank you very much. So, the cupboard went off to find more people in need to hand out the rest of the food and items that the school had donated.

And so the Hungry Cupboard was born...
